Live Out Loud Children's EducationTask and Priority Brainstorming Template

The following template is the first step to helping select the tasks, priorities, and amount associated with each duty your child selects.

INSTRUCTIONS:

- Work together with your child to create a list of ten tasks that he/she could complete in or around the house.
- After you've selected the tasks, work together to decide how to rank the tasks from the most important to the least important.
- Once you have narrowed down the five most important tasks, begin conversation about the value of each task based on its importance, difficulty level, or investment of time.
- Once this process is complete, have a conversation about how other local businesses or services use the same model to determine their pricing and offerings. How can this learning be applied to real world situations?
